Manpower Spain Named Top Staffing Company to Work For in Survey of Country's Best Workplaces

Barcelona, Spain (May 14, 2009) Manpower Spain announced today that it was named one of the top three Spanish companies to work for in the annual Great Place to Work Institute's Survey of the 50 Best Workplaces. Manpower achieved third place in the 500 to 1,000 employees category, improving four places from seventh in 2008 and also earning the distinction of the leading staffing company to work for.

"This award is another ringing endorsement of our envied company culture," said Barbara Beck, Manpower Inc. President of Europe, Middle East and Africa. "Manpower prides itself on providing the best experiences for employees and associates who in turn help us to deliver exceptional value to our clients."

"We are delighted to feature so prominently on the Best Workplaces list this year," said Manpower Spain Executive Chairperson Carmen Mur. "To move up four places in the list during such a difficult year is an honor for which we can all take enormous pride. Our team's energy and engagement is critical as we navigate these challenging economic times, and it's no accident that we continue to be leaders in the world of work both for our clients and our own people."

As a world leader in the employment services industry, Manpower has always been acutely aware of the role work plays in people's life. The company has long been at the forefront of attracting and retaining talent, thanks to its pioneering attitudes to workplace practices. Contest judges cited Initiatives such as ensuring a sound work-life balance and introducing flexible working as well as encouraging employees' career development as factors in Manpower's ranking.
